Total returns are calculated using the sell (exit) price, net of management fees and gross of tax as if distributions of income have been reinvested at the actual distribution reinvestment price. The actual returns received by an investor will depend on the timing, buy and exit prices of individual transactions. Return of capital and the performance of your investment in the fund are not guaranteed. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Figures showing a period of less than one year have not been adjusted to show an annual total return. Figures for periods of greater than one year are on a per annum compound basis. The current benchmark may not have been the benchmark over all periods shown in the above chart and tables. The calculation of the benchmark performance links the performance of previous benchmarks and the current benchmark over the relevant time periods.

Commentary

Global markets had a strong final quarter for 2022 after a volatile nine months, with the MSCI World index ex Australia rising 7.5% and the S&P ASX 300 rising 9.1%. Despite inflation remaining elevated, there were indications that prices could stabilize, as natural gas prices fell from a high of €340/MWh in August to pre-Ukraine levels near €70 by the end of the year. The US bond yield decreased dropping from 4.23% in October to 3.88% by the end of the year. The Australian bond market was more volatile, falling from 4.2% in October to 3.29% in December before finishing the year at 4.05%.

The Emerging Shares Fund appreciated by 2.0% (Wholesale 2.1%) over the December quarter relative to its S&P/ASX Small Industrials Benchmark which appreciated 6.6% resulting in an underperformance of -4.6% (Wholesale -4.4%). The underperformance can be primarily attributed to stock selection in Communications, Healthcare and Information Technology sectors, while a zero weighting in real-estate was a negative contributor. Companies like wealth management software company Bravura Solutions came clean on their 1st half 2023 trading in November while pathology and radiology company Healius downgraded earnings in November on higher cost structures with falling covid revenues, while cloud communications company Symbio downgraded their profitability late in December. We view these as temporary setbacks which in time can be recovered. The strongest individual stock contributor was utility and airports software billing company Gentrack which appreciated 85% over the quarter after strengthening its 2023 and 2024 revenue guidance.
